About Steven Payne: Steven hales from Portland, Oregon, but actually began Tango in Salt Lake City where he was molded by fine teachers and a supportive community into a master close-embrace dancer. His teachers along the way, including Christopher Nassopolous, Susana Miller, Luciana Valle, Tomas Howlin and Brigitta Winkler, have each given Steven a part of their own unique style, instilled in him passionate musicality, and inspired him with the outrageous possibilities that Argentine tango holds for those who embrace and are passionate about the dance. Steven has been teaching tango for six years and likes to stress an organic tango technique where students, having learned fundamental principles, can construct their own movement as inspired by the music and by the vibrant flow of the dance floor.

Steven's dance skill and understanding of tango continues to evolve . . . I continue to learn from him. --Mark Christensen

Why the worldwide resurgence of tango?

“Because it is so fun . . . It can be passionate, intimate, artistic, sexy, creative, dynamic, sublime, sophisticated or raunchy.” --Erica Sutton

“Because it will likely improve your social life three hundred percent!” --Al Gates, Chicago
